Re: National Advocacy Meetings with Members of Parliament

With the 2022 Parliamentary session underway, CAUT will be organizing a national advocacy campaign next month to build federal support for post-secondary education and research. Beginning the week of March 7 and continuing throughout the month, CAUT will be coordinating virtual lobby meetings with member association leaders and their Members of Parliament. These meetings are an important opportunity for you to discuss with your local MPs the challenges facing university and college staff in their constituency and across the country, and to outline what the federal government can do to ensure better funding, stronger research support, and more attractive working conditions.

If you are interested in meeting with your local MPs, please register at:
https://registration.caut.ca/index.php?event_id=nammp2022&language=e by February 18, 2022.

Prior to the virtual meetings, CAUT will be connecting with participants to provide additional background information and briefing notes to assist in preparation for the meetings

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact Melissa Bendig, Policy & Government Relations Officer, at bendig@caut.ca.
